

Chapter 18

1. Which of the following is not an operating system commonly found on mobile devices?
 - A. Android
 - B. UNIX
 - C. iOS
 - D. Windows

2. What can be done with open-source software that cannot be done with closed-source software?
 - A. The code can be changed.
 - B. It can be installed by the user.
 - C. It can be updated by the user.
 - D. It can be downloaded from the Internet.

3. Where can you find applications for both Android and iOS devices?
 - A. From websites run by the app developers
 - B. From sources designed for the operating systems
 - C. On discs purchased from retail outlets
 - D. From the device's manufacturer

4. What Linux command can be used to see the contents of a directory?
 - A. pwd
 - B. tell
 - C. ls
 - D. cd

5. Many Linux commands can be used with characters such as the asterisk (to mean all) and the question mark (to mean one). What are these characters known as?

- A. Decks
 - B. Regular expressions
 - C. Permissions
 - D. NFCs
6. Which of the following shells is commonly used to run Linux utilities?
- A. rsh
 - B. CMD
 - C. PowerShell
 - D. bash
7. Which of the following networking utilities would perform, in Linux, functions similar to what ipconfig does in Windows?
- A. ifconfig
 - B. mkdir
 - C. show
 - D. chown
8. To use an analogy, _____ is to the OS X what Windows Explorer was to Windows 7.
- A. Dock
 - B. Boot Camp
 - C. Finder
 - D. Spot Light
9. Screen sharing with the built in features of Mac OS X require a _____ connection.
- A. IMAP4
 - B. POP3
 - C. WebCT

D. VNC

10. What type of storage refers to a location away from the computer center where paper copies and backup media are kept?

A. Duplicated

B. Warm

C. Cold

D. Offsite