

HR Scenario 2 of 6: Training and Development

ID: 02-VIDEO-57eedd22357d8e76c46ace4d

Workplace training and development programs provide opportunities for staff to supplement their existing knowledge of workplace goals and current regulations.

The logo for the University of Phoenix School of Business, featuring a stylized 'U' and 'P' intertwined with the text 'University of Phoenix' and 'School of Business'.RECORDED ON

Oct 17, 2016

COPYRIGHT

2016

CATEGORY

Business and Management

SUB-CATEGORYHuman Resources and Organizational BehaviorTAGSStrategic plan, strategic, hiring, employees, recruiting, hire staff,
interviews, human resources, HR

- [Narrator] You are a training specialist at Elegant Estates, a property management firm that is mature and has a stable company culture. There is no plan to either increase or decrease staffing in the near future. Your manager, the head of training and development, wants to come up with a training and employee development program starting next quarter, and asks you to research training and development programs, and training methods. Use this information to answer Scenario Two on the HR Scenarios worksheet.