

Planning outline

My problem is business management. Leadership is an important issue between employer and employee in company.

I will write two main points. First point, I talk about employer how to be a good worker and solve relationship between employee and employer and get along with another employee. Second point, I focus on leader. I will write some skills to ask leader how deal with relationship between employee and employer.

My audience is employee and employer. Some professional managers also can read it and show management experience each other.

The purpose of project is helping company work steady and save relationship between employee and employer.

My objective is that let company become family.

I even worked in my father's company. I find employee and employer's relations not good. Some workers scared to see the leaders and cannot ask problems to leaders. At the same time, leaders do not know problems from worker, they cannot use true ways to help worker. These activities make company waste time and money.

I think I should read more examples about leadership further.
