

Human Disease Research Paper

Write a research paper about a disease that attacks the human body. Diseases should be limited to the integumentary system, skeletal system, muscular system and nervous system. Only use credible websites (ex. Cdc.gov, Who.int), peer-reviewed journals, and scientific resources (textbooks, encyclopedias, articles). Your paper and references should be in APA format.

Information should include, but not limited to:

1. Background information about the organ system and structure affected under normal circumstances
2. Description of the disease and how it affects the structure and organ system
3. How the person becomes infected and how the disease is spread
4. Risk factors that may lead to the disease
5. Symptoms of the disease
6. How the disease is diagnosed
7. How the disease is treated
8. How the disease is prevented
9. Current research being done on the disease (within the past 5 years)
10. Prevalence of the disease in the US and around the world.

