

FILM ANALYSIS

HERE is what you need to do:

1. WATCH the film. You will have to do this AT LEAST a couple of times.

2. STUDY the communication that occurs between the characters in the film and identify the effects of cultural patterns and perceptions on verbal and nonverbal communication. In other words, you are to come up with a description of the interpersonal communication patterns that occur within that culture, but from the vantage point of your own cultural point of view.

3. BASE the information in your film analysis on your responses to the following questions:
  - WHAT is the major storyline of the film? That is, provide a brief summary of the plot of the film. In doing so, be sure to include a description of the main characters in the film and their relationship to each other.

  - WHAT does the film illustrate about the cultural patterns, family dynamics, history, belief systems or communication style of this culture? (Be descriptive of each one)

  - DESCRIBE and ANALYZE one scene from the film that illustrates a specific cultural pattern and how this affects the interpersonal communication between the characters in the scene. Be sure to explain how this particular scene relates to the plot of the film.
