I'm business major for my future career I will work on the career about the business management. For this discussion I think about the problem how to build the brief among the employees. The brief will be pretty necessary for the company, whatever what kind of issue happened in the company I believe the most important thing is that the employees should believe the leader of the company instead of doubt to the company. For example when meet the financial problem, no one can ensure if the company can solve the problem about the capital chain. Under this kind of the issue, the employees will have lots of different thought. Some of them will have negative thought but some of them will have positive thought. When some of them have the negative thought, they will think more about the benefit of themselves, it will affect the working efficiency. I means under this kind of the problem the company face, the best result is the employees can work as normal. Like the employee have the positive thought, they have the brief to the company they believe the employer they think the company can solve everything for them. so in the future career, if the company want to become success must to think highly about the brief among the employees.
